

Lejonklou HiFi and Nokturne Audio introduce the Boazu Integrated Amplifier

The Boazu is the integrated amplifier from Lejonklou HiFi – their first. Its' design was undertaken to bring the musical engagement and integrity of Lejonklous' higher priced products, the Sagatun preamplifiers and Tundra power amplifiers, to a more affordable price level. Fredriks' goal was to offer this musical enjoyment to a wider group of music lovers by substantially reducing the price while keeping most of the musical quality. We are happy to say Boazu has exceeded this goal!

Boazu combines the 24W 8 Ohm/40W 4 Ohm (continuous 20Hz-20kHz) power amp circuit of the groundbreaking Tundra stereo power amp with a slimmed down version of the circuit from the incredibly engaging Sagatun stereo preamp. The combination of these two circuits, with the shorter signal paths allowed by an integrated design, brings an amazing level of musical performance. Yet at a price of $3999 it is well under half that of the separates combination!

In our experience, Boazu has a level of musical engagement and enjoyment that has not been available before in this price range. To achieve this the Boazu uses standard Lejonklou design and construction practices including hand-matched components, dual custom switched-mode power supplies, a 1.1kg solid copper heatsink, accurate directionality of ALL components, precise torqueing of all fasteners and solid aluminum construction. Boazu accepts four line-level sources with a unique design that removes the input switching for better sound and simpler construction – you simply turn on whatever source you want to listen to and you are immediately ready to go. Volume and muting are controlled by the included remote or from the front panel. Boazu also features the unique Lejonklou color-change LED indication of volume and muting. Boazu gives you all this precision, sophistication and musicality in a compact 14" square, 3" high all-aluminum chassis with the standard Lejonklou simple, hard-wearing textured black finish and laser cut logo and legends.

So why is it called Boazu? In the language of the Sami people indigenous to Scandinavia, boazu is the word for reindeer. The Sami view reindeer similarly to the way the American plains Indians view the buffalo. Many Sami herd boazu and they use them for transportation, clothing, meat and milk. It is said among the Sami that if you have a boazu you are doing OK.

The Boazu is now available for $3999. If you have a Boazu you are OK!
